Cellular phone use aboard aircraft should continue to be banned.
Tight quarters, combined with frequent laissez-faire attitude would contribute to impatience flare-ups.
Unfortunately, cell phone users too often lack etiquette, and it is easier to enforce a ban than to try to regulate callers once allowed to use their phones. There are enough things to "police" on airplanes without having to add rude cell phone users.